

BCEC's technology hailed Australia's best at National MEA Awards

Brisbane Convention & Exhibition Centre's In-House AV Services were judged the 'best of the best' at the Meetings & Events Australia (MEA) National Awards this week in Sydney.

Taking out the major category at the industry's most prestigious awards demonstrates BCEC's ongoing commitment to innovation and investment in event technology and customer experience.

BCEC General Manager, Bob O'Keeffe said the Centre's highly experienced and passionate team of AV professionals were worthy recipients of the national award.

"This is recognition of the great job they do using their creativity and amazing talents, breathing life into hundreds of events for clients every year."

BCEC's AV Team also received international acclaim when they managed and operated the entire Audio Visual component of the 2014 G20, hailed as the 'best ever' in the history of the Summit.

The Centre's Audio Visual & Production Services Manager, Michael Duckworth, who accepted the award said he was extremely privileged to work with a team driven to deliver the best event experience they can for clients and guests.

"We love what we do and are constantly on the hunt for new and innovative ways to utilise technology in the event space."

This brings the Centre's award tally to an impressive 165 national and major industry awards.
